Overview

Administrative Applications (AA), Distance Education (DE), District Print Services (DPS), District Technical Services (DTS), Campus Technology Services (CTS), Institutional Effectiveness, Research, and Planning Services (IERP), Grants, and Alternate Text Production (ATP) provide technology to the San Bernardino Community College District.

This catalog of services provides a listing of each service offered by TESS. Each described service includes a service level agreement (SLA), who provides the service, who the intended service consumers are, and how a particular service is normally requested.

SLAs provide information regarding the time frames in which services are provided and response times to requests. This generally means the time frames in which you can interact with employees who provide the service or the time frames in which the employees who provide the service work. There are generally three standard time frames:

Standard Hours (SH): These are the normal hours of operation for the division. In general, all services provided by a division are provided during these hours.

Extended Hours (EH): Extended hours extend the normal work day for certain services only. These extended hours are provided either by personnel working off-set hours or personnel overtime. Extended hours are generally staffed for support of areas such as evening classes.

24/7 ( 24/7): 24/7 means the service is provided every hour of every day that the District or College campuses are open. This level of support is generally restricted to critical infrastructure areas. During off-hours, operations personnel are overtime to provide the service.

Other: Any SLA defined outside of the first three is a special service level for a specific service that has (or must be) negotiated with TESS management. These SLAs will be described individually.

Request types refer to how requests should normally be submitted to TESS. Nonstandard request types are described in the catalog. Standard request types are coded as noted below:

Use this catalog to determine who to contact for a specific service, and how. As a general rule, it is considered best practice to contact the help desk providing as much information as possible to obtain the best service.

Alternate Text Production Center (ATPC)

The Alternate Text Production Center is a state wide resource providing alternate media services to the 113 California Community Colleges. Our primary clients are the Disabled Student Programs and Services (DSPS) offices at these colleges. The following services and programs are conducted at our Camarillo, CA offices:

- Production of Braille textbooks and instructional materials including complex transcriptions such as math, music, and computer codes
- Creation of electronic versions of textbooks and instructional materials for use with accessible technology
- Maintain partnerships with the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation to train and utilize alternate sources of transcription services
- Provide braille and e-text services to clients outside the community college system on a fee for service basis. Proceeds from these projects will provide funding to further the primary goals of the ATPC.
